

Contents

Foreword	P^ag^e xi
Chronology	xv
Glossary	xviii

Introduction	1
Reference points	5
— A tribal revolt?	7
— An ethnic war?	9
— A blend of religion and politics?	16
Issues and hypotheses	19

Part I. THE ORIGINS OF THE AFGHAN REVOLUTION

1. The Sociogenesis of the Afghan State	23
The role of imperialism	24
Neo-patrimonialism	25
The legitimacy of the state	33
Challenges to the state	40
2. From Mobilisation to Revolution	61
The mobilisation of internal resources	61
International funding	63
The politicisation of the educated class	65
The failure of the parliamentary regime	76
Authoritarian mobilisation and repression under Daud	80
Utopia and violence: the communists in power	85

Part II. MOBILISATIONS

3. The Commanders	93
Tfie	revolt 93
Jihad	105

	'Qowm' and commanders	108
	The social profile of the commanders	111
	Models of organisation	123
	Finance	129
4.	The Jihadi Parties	137
	The formation of parties	137
	A typology of the parties	149
	The parties and the refugees	169

Part III. THE DYNAMICS OF CONFRONTATION

5.	The Kabul Regime	173
	The party under Karmal	173
	The three strategic dimensions	175
	Preparations for the retreat	191
	From the Proximity talks to the Geneva accords	198
	The post-withdrawal survival of the regime	201
6.	The Guerrillas	207
	The professionalisation of the fighters	207
	The evolution of the political map	212
	Inter-party cooperation	223
	The mujahidin after the withdrawal	227

Part IV THE TALIBAN

7.	Competition and the Impetus towards Monopoly (1992-2001)	235
	The collapse of the state	237
	The regionalisation of the forces (1992-1995)	240
	Towards monopolisation	250
8.	The Ethnicisation of the Conflict	257
	Ethnicisation as a strategy	258
	Ethnicisation as an unintended consequence	265
	The challenge to the ethnic hierarchy	268
9.	The Clerical State	272
	The party functionaries	273

State structures	278
The social backlash: the puritan order and social resistance	284
The radicalisation of the Taliban	301

Part V. THE AMERICAN INVASION AND THE RETURN OF FRAGMENTATION

10. 'A Splendid Little War'?	315
The strategy of the United States	317
The failure of the Pakistani solution	322
The fall of the Taliban	325
11. The Return to Political Fragmentation	329
The reconstruction of the state	331
The new guerrilla movement	338
Ethnicity, social groups and ideologies	342
12. The Policy of Pakistan	346
Trial of strength with the pro-Taliban movements	351
Commercial and human movements	352
Conclusion	354
Select Bibliography	357
Index	363