

Contents

List of Illustrations	vii
List of Abbreviations	ix
Acknowledgements	xi
Introduction: James Barry's Writings and the Genre of History Painting	1
1 Barry's Inquiry into Public Taste	39
2 The Progress of Human Culture as a Narrative of Enlightenment	61
3 Barry's Lectures on Painting and the Royal Academy of Arts	93
4 Wollstonecraft's Reading of Milton and the Sublime of Barry, Fuseli and Blake	127
5 Barry's Self-Portrait as Timanthes and His Tenure as Professor of Painting	153
Conclusion: History Painting as a 'Union of Talents'	179
Works Cited	189
Index	199