

Contents

Tables & Charts — XI

Introduction (Anna Mazurkiewicz) — 1

1 Albania (Agata Domachowska) — 9

- 1.1 Albanian migration in historical perspective — 9
- 1.2 The aftermath of World War II — 15
  - 1.2.1 The political situation in Albania after World War II — 17
- 1.3 Major migration streams from Albania during the Cold War — 20
  - 1.3.1 Albania's internal migration — 23
  - 1.3.2 The political activities of Albanian émigrés — 25
  - 1.3.3 Covert operations in Albania during the Cold War — 37
- 1.4 Albanian migration since 1989 — 39
- 1.5 Archives and Literature — 43

2 Baltic States: Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania (Pauli Heikkilä) — 45

- 2.1 Regional migrations in historical perspective — 45
- 2.2 The aftermath of World War II — 46
  - 2.2.1 Balts as Displaced Persons — 48
- 2.3 Major migration streams during the Cold War — 52
- 2.4 Political activities in exile — 53
  - 2.4.1 The USSR and Baltic émigrés — 58
  - 2.4.2 Political cooperation among Baltic exiles — 61
- 2.5 Migration since 1989 — 64
- 2.6 Archives and Literature — 64

3 Bulgaria (Detelina Dineva) — 68

- 3.1 Bulgarian migration in historical perspective — 68
- 3.2 The aftermath of World War II — 74
- 3.3 Major migration streams during the Cold War — 78
  - 3.3.1 Migration policy — 78
  - 3.3.2 Immigration — 80
  - 3.3.3 Emigration — 82
  - 3.3.4 Political emigration — 83
  - 3.3.5 The scope of Bulgarian migration and dominant settlement areas — 84
- 3.4 Political activities in exile — 88
  - 3.4.1 The Bulgarian National Committee and the Bulgarian National Front — 90

VI — Contents

- 3.4.2 Unfulfilled hopes and disappointment — 93
- 3.4.3 Bulgarian State Security and émigré organizations — 95
- 3.5 Migration since 1989 — 96
- 3.6 Archives and Literature — 97

- 4 Czechoslovakia (Michael Cude and Ellen Paul) — 101
  - 4.1 Migrations in historical perspective — 101
  - 4.2 The aftermath of World War II — 104
  - 4.3 Major migration streams during the Cold War — 105
    - 4.3.1 Czech/Czechoslovak organizations — 107
    - 4.3.2 Slovak organizations — 113
    - 4.3.3 Sudeten Germans, Rusyns, Hungarians, and other ethnic minorities — 116
  - 4.4 Czech and Slovak political activities in exile — 120
    - 4.4.1 Early Cold War — 120
    - 4.4.2 Era of détente — 127
  - 4.5 Migration since 1989 — 132
  - 4.6 Archives and Literature — 133

- 5 Germany (Bethany Hicks) — 136
  - 5.1 German migration in historical perspective — 136
  - 5.2 The aftermath of World War II — 138
    - 5.2.1 Migration and mobility in occupied Germany, 1945–1949 — 138
  - 5.3 Major migration streams during the Cold War — 142
    - 5.3.1 German migration before the Berlin Wall, 1949–1961 — 142
    - 5.3.2 German migration after the Berlin Wall, 1961–1989 — 148
    - 5.3.3 Migration and the Peaceful Revolution of 1989 — 151
  - 5.4 Political activities in exile — 160
  - 5.5 Migration since 1989 – during and after unification — 160
  - 5.6 Archives and Literature — 165

- 6 Hungary (Katalin Kádár Lynn) — 168
  - 6.1 Hungarian migration in historical perspective — 168
    - 6.1.1 The aftermath of World War II – the refugee crisis — 169
    - 6.1.2 Post-World War II Hungarian policy related to migration — 171
  - 6.2 Major migration streams — 173
    - 6.2.1 1944–1945: the “45-ers” — 173
    - 6.2.2 The 1947 exodus: the “47-ers” — 175
    - 6.2.3 The 56-ers: emigration after the Hungarian Revolution of 23 October – 10 November 1956 — 177
  - 6.3 Repatriation — 177
    - 6.3.1 Repatriating the Hungarian postwar exodus: 1945–1951 — 177
    - 6.3.2 Repatriation after the 1956 Hungarian Revolution — 180

6.4	Hungary's minorities: Motivations for emigration —	181
6.4.1	Hungarian Jews —	181
6.4.2	The ethnic German minority —	182
6.4.3	Hungary's Roma —	183
6.4.4	Resettlement and Supporting Organizations —	184
6.5	Political activities in exile —	184
6.5.1	The 45-ers' organizations —	184
6.5.2	The 47-ers' organizations —	186
6.5.3	The 56-ers' organizations —	187
6.5.4	Hungarian cooperation with other émigré political, cultural, artistic, and scientific groups —	188
6.5.5	Infiltration: communist actions against émigré groups and leaders —	188
6.6	Hungarian migration until 1989 —	190
6.7	Archives and Literature —	191
7	Poland (Sławomir Łukasiewicz) —	193
7.1	World War II and Polish migration —	195
7.1.1	Evacuations and escapes —	197
7.1.2	Population transfers by the Nazis —	198
7.1.3	Population transfers by the Soviets —	200
7.1.4	German expellees —	201
7.1.5	Post-war returns and arrivals to Poland (Sławomir Łukasiewicz) —	202
7.2	Major emigration streams, 1945–1989 —	204
7.2.1	Post-war standstill —	204
7.2.2	Emigration of Jews from Polish People's Republic —	205
7.2.3	The emigration of Germans from People's Poland —	206
7.2.4	Repatriation campaigns and migrations after 1956 —	207
7.2.5	The 'Solidarity' period —	209
7.2.6	Spatial distribution —	212
7.3	Political activities in exile —	218
7.3.1	The main political power structures —	218
7.3.2	Social and political life in exile —	222
7.3.3	The government-in-exile's international position —	226
7.3.4	Political thought in exile —	228
7.3.5	The People's Republic and the Polish diaspora —	231
7.3.6	Interactions with the home country —	234
7.4	Migration since 1989 —	237
7.5	Archives and Literature —	238
8	Romania (Beatrice Scutaru) —	243
8.1	Romanian migration in historical perspective —	243

VIII — Contents

- 8.2 The aftermath of World War II — 245
- 8.3 Major migration streams across "the nylon curtain" — 246
  - 8.3.1 Choosing freedom over security — 247
  - 8.3.2 Restricted freedom of movement — 248
  - 8.3.3 Migration streams: an overview — 252
  - 8.3.4 Who, how and where? — 257
  - 8.3.5 A new form of migration: international adoptions — 265
- 8.4 Political activities in exile — 268
  - 8.4.1 Building a new life on the other side of the Iron Curtain — 268
  - 8.4.2 Political mobilization: between democratic tradition and anti-Communist fight — 270
  - 8.4.3 The mission to inform — 274
  - 8.4.4 Culture as resistance — 277
- 8.5 Migration since 1989 — 279
- 8.6 Archives and Literature — 282
- 9 Ukraine (Anna Fiń) — 286
  - 9.1 Conditions and course of Ukrainian migration — 289
  - 9.2 The aftermath of World War II — 291
  - 9.3 Major migration streams during the Cold War. The third wave of Ukrainian emigration — 293
  - 9.4 Political activities in exile — 301
    - 9.4.1 Anti-Communist diaspora activity — 307
    - 9.4.2 Interethnic cooperation — 316
  - 9.5 Migration since 1989/1991 — 319
  - 9.6 Archives and Literature — 322
- 10 USSR (Alexey Antoshin) — 326
  - 10.1 Russian migrations in historical perspective — 326
  - 10.2 The aftermath of World War II — 331
  - 10.3 Major migration streams from the USSR during the Cold War — 333
    - 10.3.1 Repatriation and the 'Second Wave' of Soviet emigration — 333
    - 10.3.2 Emigration of Soviet Jews in the 1960s–1980s. — 341
    - 10.3.3 Emigration of Soviet Germans — 346
    - 10.3.4 The "Free World" and the Émigré — 348
  - 10.4 Political activities in exile — 356
  - 10.5 Migration since 1991 — 362
  - 10.6 Archives and Literature — 362
- 11 Yugoslavia (Brigitte Le Normand) — 368
  - 11.1 Migrations in historical perspective — 368
  - 11.2 The aftermath of World War II — 368

11.3	Major migration streams during the Cold War —	370
11.3.1	1945–1954: Deciding who was in and who was out —	370
11.3.2	1954–1990: Opening the borders —	378
11.4	Political activities in exile —	385
11.5	Migration since 1989 —	388
11.6	Archives and Literature —	391

Selected Bibliography —	396
-------------------------	-----

Authors' Biographical Notes —	426
-------------------------------	-----

Index —	431
---------	-----