

Contents

Notes on the Contributors	ix
Abbreviations	x

1. Introduction	1
Paul Corner

PART 1. TWO OVERVIEWS

2. Popular Opinion in Russia Under Pre-war Stalinism	17
Sheila Fitzpatrick
3. Consensus, Coercion and Popular Opinion in the Third Reich: Some Reflections	33
Ian Kershaw

PART 2. THE FIRST DICTATORSHIPS

4. Liberation from Autonomy: Mapping Self-Understandings in Stalin's Time	49
Jochen Hellbeck
5. Beyond Binaries: Popular Opinion in Stalinism	64
Jan Plamper
6. Popular Opinion in Nazi Germany as a Factor in the Policy of the 'Solution of the Jewish Question': The Nuremberg Laws and the Reichskristallnacht	81
Otto Dov Kulka
7. Popular Opinion in Nazi Germany: Mobilization, Experience, Perceptions: The View from the Württemberg Countryside	107
Jill Stephenson
8. Fascist Italy in the 1930s: Popular Opinion in the Provinces	122
Paul Corner

PART 3. DICTATORSHIP AFTER 1945

9. Poland: The Silence of Those Deprived of Voice	149
Marcin Kula

10. Consent in the Communist GDR or How to Interpret Lion Feuchtwanger's Blindness in Moscow 1937 Martin Sabrow	168
11. Demography, Opportunity or Ideological Conversion? Reflections on the Role of the 'Second Hitler Youth Generation', or '1929ers', in the GDR Mary Fulbrook	184
12. Tacit Minimal Consensus: The Always Precarious East German Dictatorship Thomas Lindenberger	208
Select Bibliography	223
Index	227