

Table of Contents

Introduction

Berber Bevernage and Chris Lorenz:

Breaking up Time –

Negotiating the Borders between Present, Past and Future . . . . . 7

1. Time and Modernity: Critical Approaches to Koselleck's Legacy 37

Aleida Assmann:

Transformations of the Modern Time Regime . . . . . 39

Peter Fritzsche:

The Ruins of Modernity . . . . . 57

Peter Osborne:

Global Modernity and the Contemporary:

Two Categories of the Philosophy of Historical Time . . . . . 69

2. Ruptures in Time: Revolutions and Wars 85

Sanja Perovic:

Year 1 and Year 61 of the French Revolution:

The Revolutionary Calendar and Auguste Comte . . . . . 87

Claudia Verhoeven:

Wormholes in Russian History: Events 'Outside of Time' . . . . . 109

François Hartog:

The Modern Régime of Historicity in the Face of Two World Wars . . 124

Lucian Hölscher:

Mysteries of Historical Order: Ruptures, Simultaneity and the Relationship of the Past, the Present and the Future . . . . . 134

3. Thinking about Time: Analytical Approaches	153
Jonathan Gorman:
The Limits of Historiographical Choice in Temporal Distinctions . . .	155
Constantin Fasolt:
Breaking up Time – Escaping from Time: Self-Assertion and Knowledge of the Past . . . . .	176
4. Time outside Europe:
Imperialism, Colonialism and Globalisation	197
Lynn Hunt:
Globalisation and Time . . . . .	199
Stefan Tanaka:
Unification of Time and the Fragmentation of Pasts in Meiji Japan . .	216
Axel Schneider:
Temporal Hierarchies and Moral Leadership: China's Engagement with Modern Views of History . . . . .	236
William Gallois:
The War for Time in Early Colonial Algeria . . . . .	252
Notes on Authors . . . . .	274